has participated in the following openHPI course:

Human-Centered Design: Building and Testing Prototypes

by Mana Taheri, Karen von Schmieden, and Lena Mayer

The 6-week course covered the following topics:

- The basics of building simple prototypes for user testing
- The fundamentals of planning and conducting user testings
- The fundamentals of clustering, analyzing and evaluating tester feedback for design iteration

The participant qualified for this confirmation by accessing more than 50% of all learning material.
